I hope everyone has a nice day and I am now back to work! It has been a long time since my last update. Thank you for all the support. It has been a challenging year for me and my family, but I am pleased to announce that the book is now available for purchase. For one, I was out of the country for three months, so all of my interviews and some of my videos were recorded without my knowledge. After I came back from my travels, I tried to get everything back into some sort of order, but it was not until after the holidays and I was home for a few weeks that I was able to truly get into a routine and could take a break. I took several breaks to enjoy a quiet weekend and have some time to myself, even though that meant my family and I had to be apart for a few days. The times I have been home and able to enjoy some time with family and friends has been a really great time, but I know that the year has been hard and there are many families that are going through the same thing. So, I hope that everyone had a happy and safe holiday season. I love you all, and I am going to continue to work hard to help out and spread the message about addiction and the need for more services for those in need. For those looking for some help with the holidays and getting through the hard times that we are all going through, here is a link to a wonderful group in Arizona that deals with addiction. If you or a loved one is struggling with the issue of addiction or have a family member who is suffering through this, I would love to help you get through this.
